□ ROSTER ISSUE: The big, fat newsletter #45 contains the long-promised 1984 Membership Roster (tucked away inside the newsletter).

As previously indicated, we decided just to list names and addresses, rather than include biosketches, in large part because it's such a hassle getting good biosketch information. Even though it costs more to include biosketches, we'd prefer to do that kind of roster, as it makes the Roster more useful and more interesting to read. A number of personal update items, for example, are included elsewhere in this issue, and we encourage that. We'd like to hear from you when you next write in, letting us know your preference on addresses-only versus addresses-plus-biosketches, so we can be guided for the next round.

If we have any omissions or errors, our apologies in advance. Let us know, and we'll maybe put out an addendum/errata sheet with the next Newsletter.

The Roster is arranged alphabetically by states; within states, listings are in Zip Code order. One reason we put the names in Zip Code order is to faciliate use of the Roster. It should be easier to pull together a local meeting or social event (which we strongly encourage); you can see at a glance who your fellow Networkers are in your area. With a photocopier, scissors, and some tape, you can even have a mailing list. We'd appreciate knowing how useful you find the Roster.

Be sure to send us notices about your new jobs. Since the Roster indicates where people work only for those who use their work address, one way of keeping up on where everyone is and what they're doing is to send in a short item on your own job or job change.

☐ FINANCIAL MINI-REPORT: Since the last issue, we got a near-record number of contributions—125, totalling $2,387. We get a rush like that whenever we threaten to drop people, and send them postcards instead of newsletters. But, to balance that, production of the Roster—typesetting, printing, postage—brought this Newsletter's cost to a record high. Thanks to everyone for digging deep. We hope you will keep it up.

Passing the Word

□ WOMEN AND CHILDREN: The Coalition on Women and the Budget (c/o National Women's Law Center, 1751 N St. N.W., Wash. DC 20036, 202/872-0670) claims that three

The Planners Network

The Planners Network is an association of professionals, activists, academics, and students involved in physical, social, economic, and environmental planning in urban and rural areas, who promote fundamental change in our political and economic system.

We believe that planning should be a tool for allocating resources and developing the environment to eliminate the great inequalities of wealth and power in our society, rather than to maintain and justify the status quo. We believe that planning should be used to assure adequate food, clothing, shelter, medical care, jobs, safe working conditions, and a healthful environment. We advocate public responsibility for meeting these needs, because the private market has proven incapable of doing so.

We oppose the economic structure of our society, which values profit and property rights over human rights and needs. This system perpetuates the inequalities of class, race, sex and age which distort human relationships and limit the potential for a decent quality of life. We advocate a shift in current national budgetary priorities to favor human services, social production and environmental protection over military and other nonproductive expenditures.

We seek to be an effective political and social force, working with other progressive organizations to inform public opinion and public policy and to provide assistance to those seeking to understand, control, and change the forces which affect their lives

The Planners Network Newsletter is published six times a year as the principal means of communication among Network members. Annual financial contributions are voluntary, but we do need funds for operating expenses. The Steering Committee has recommended the following amounts as minimums for Network members: $10 for students and temporarily unemployed; graduated payments for the employed of $20 plus an additional $1 for each $1,000 earned above $10,000.

years of Reagan Administration budget cuts have endangered the health and security of millions of American women and children; and it has a 100-page budget analysis, Inequality of Sacrifice: The Impact of the Reagan Budget on Women, which, it says, supports its assertion. Copies are $2 prepaid.

□ PESTICIDE ALTERNATIVES: The Northwest Coalition for Alternatives to Pesticides (Box 375, Eugene, OR 97440) has a publication, NCAP News, which provides excellent information on pesticides to citizen-advocates and health planners in occupational and environmental health issues. The Spring issues includes articles on community-based health studies and on pesticide poisoning among farmworkers, among other features. Annual subscriptions are $10; sample copies, $1.50.

☐ FOOD CO-OP: The Atlanta Produce Exchange (321 W. Hill St., Decatur, GA 30030, 404/377-5638) is a farmer-consumer cooperative providing wholesale nonprofit produce. It specializes in locally grown produce, but also provides full produce service for restaurants, churches, community centers, and buying clubs.

☐ NETWORKER UPDATE: From Michael Kieschnick (39 Priest St., San Francisco, CA 94109): I am doing a variety of things these days: Chair of Working Assets Management Co., which runs the socially responsible Working Assets Money Fund; vice president of Dimensional Credit, a new lender to small publicly traded companies; teaching a graduate seminar at Berkeley on financial innovation and regulation; writing the monthly newsletter Politics and Markets, recently noted in PN; and creating a "resume book" for progressive MBAs which will be distributed nationally to nonprofit groups, worker- and community-based companies, union research departments, and the like. All this took a bit of work to get started—a year without income to start the two companies—but they are finally up and running.

□ JOB QUEST, EUROPE: I have an opportunity to move to Europe in January 1985 (most likely to either London or Paris) and am looking at the practicality of working as a planner. The logistics of visa status appear to favor an unpaid internship situation; however, a "real job" is obviously my first choice. Do you know anyone working in the fields of environmental or transportation planning or community development whom I might contact? Any suggestions of alternatives (i.e. especially good academic programs)? Currently, I am the manager of the energy and environmental analysis section of a regional transportation agency, and I have a M.U.R.P. from Rutgers. I

Roundup: Worker Cooperatives, Employee Ownership, and Workplace Democracy

(If you have additional items relating to this emerging worker-control network, or want more information about it, contact Len Krimerman or Ralph Yourie, Dept. of Philosophy, University of Connecticut, Storrs, CT 06268, 203/486-3467.)

Education for a Democratic Workplace is a two-week study tour to some of the key West European developments in worker self-management: Mondragon (Euskadi), Confederation Generale des Societies Cooperatives de Production (France), Job Ownership Ltd. and the Cooperative Development Agency (England). The tour begins in New York City on June 24 with a briefing and visit to On Time Carpentry, a home building cooperative, and returns to the States on July 11. It will focus on gaining first-hand experience of self-management and of the role played by education within self-managing workplaces. Contact: Joyce Kornbluh, Labor Studies Center, Ilir, University of Michigan, 108 Museum Annex Building, Ann Arbor, MI 48109, 313/764-0492.

Critical Studies in Organization and Bureaucracy has just been published by Temple University Press (Broad and Oxford Sts., Philadelphia, PA 19122). It is edited by Frank Fisher and Carmen Sirianni, and contains, besides readings in classical organization theory (Weber, Marx, Michels, Braveman), a substantial section on "Organizational Alternatives and Social Change," which features articles on worker ownership, feminism, the kibbutz, Quality Circle models, etc. Organizational studies of Three-Mile Island, the U.S. Post Office, the Department of Defense, and women and power are also included.

The Mountain Association for Community Economic Development supports community development and locally owned enterprises through its own financing division, the Cumberland Fund. The Fund has been used directly and as leverage to free up other monies for the development of new businesses. For example, MACED assisted the Bread and Chicken House, a multi-racial, feminist cooperative restaurant and bakery in southwest Virginia by securing financing for a larger facility. It formed the Forest Products Center to provide assistance necessary to stimulate the region's lagging hardwood industry. MACED also plans to develop a program to support the purchase of enterprises by workers and locally-based management as an alternative to arbitrary plant closings or the selling of locally-owned firms to national corporations. Contact them at: 210 Center St., Berea, KY 40403, 606/986-8497.

The Farm Workers Economic Development Corporation was created to deal innovatively with the economic causes of illegal immigration. The corporation is utilizing an approach to the problem of illegal immigration which relies on improved living conditions in Mexico and improved working conditions in the U.S. The effort that led to the creation of this economic development fund began six years ago with the work of the Maricopa County Organizing Project among undocumented citrus workers in orchards near Phoenix, Ariz. In 1979, the workers won a collective bargaining agreement that made them among the highest paid agricultural workers in the world. An additional demand in the A.F.W. contract required that employers contribute 20¢ per hour per employee to the FEDC fund, which is controlled by the workers. They elect a board which allocates money to projects in Mexico designed to create jobs and develop local resources. Since 1980, the economic development program has spread to dozens of communities in eight states in Mexico. For more information: P.O. Box 819, El Mirage, AZ 85345, 602/974-5961.

The Cooperative Research and Development Group located just south of Norfolk, Va., was established in 1983 to search for new products and services around which

□ LAND FOR HOUSING: The Centre for Human Settlements at the University of British Columbia has just published three papers and a summary of a seminar discussion on land for co-op housing. The volume, Managing Land for Housing: The Experience of Housing Co-operatives in British Columbia, is edited by Networker David Hulchanski, School of Community Planning, U.B.C. It is available for $6 from: Publications, Centre for Human Settlements, University of British Columbia, Vancouver, BC Canada V6T 1Z8. Make checks payable to "University of British Columbia."

□ RURAL DEVELOPMENT: From Shanna Ratner (Dept. of Agricultural Economics, Cornell Univ. Warren #11, Ithaca, NY 14853, 607/256-2102): Members of the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences are looking into the potential for rural community economic development of natural resource use. We are seeking examples of land, labor, capital, and technology arrangements in other parts of the country which have been used to maximize community benefits from the natural resource base.

☐ MANUSCRIPT REVIEW: "Planning as Social Mobilization" is the title of a new publication by PN Member John Friedmann. It is the draft of a chapter from a forthcoming book, Planning in the Public Domain: Critical History and Reconstruction, which reviews the three intellectual bases of radical planning—utopianism, social anarchism, and historical materialism—and proposes a series of characteristics of a planning paradigm drawn from these bases. Friedmann would welcome comments and observations from other Networkers. The manuscript is available from Urban Planning Program, GSAUP, UCLA, Los Angeles, CA 90024. Please send a check for $8.00 payable to the Graduate School of Architecture and Urban Planning. (The text is 120 pages, and the price is the simple cost of reproduction.)

□ URBAN GARDENING: Trust for Public Land (254 W. 31st St., New York, NY 10001, 212/563-5959), among other groups, is helping to publicize a grassroots fundraising effort to save the seven-year-old Clinton Community Garden (on 48th St. between 9th and 10th Aves.) from a New York City threat to auction the city-owned land. The city has agreed to defer the auction for the fundraising, which includes a "square-inch" sale of garden plots, an ad campaign, and citywide publicity.

worker-owned businesses can be organized. It is the first of its kind in the U.S. This North Carolina cooperative group will focus on locating new worker-owned businesses in the rural, economically depressed, northeastern region of the state. Initially the research group will be looking at products or services which can build on the skills associated with fishing, agriculture, timbering, or similar labor-intensive areas. CRDG becomes the tenth worker-owned, workermanaged business in North Carolina. Contact: Frank Adams, P.O. Box 587, Gatesville, NC 27938, 919/357-1910.

Brooklyn Ecumenical Cooperatives is a community development organization based in 26 Catholic and Protestant churches, and led by a board elected from member churches. Begun in 1981, BEC is made up of diverse ethnic backgrounds; one-third Hispanic, one-third black, and one-third white. Activities include a credit union, co-ops and condos for low- and moderate-income families, energy services, urban food growing, co-op insurance, housing rehab, computer services, and worker co-ops. The organization itself is set up as a worker co-op. Contact: Richard Harmon, General Manager, 562 Atlantic Ave., Brooklyn, NY 11217, 212/858-8803.

The Corporation for Cooperative Businesses is a business assistance organization. It is recognized by the U.S. Small Business Administration as a certified development company. This non-profit provides long-term financial assistance to worker-owned and consumer-owned businesses. To qualify for CCB assistance, a business must be organized as a cooperative enterprise. The cooperative must meet SBA size standards: A net worth not exceeding $6 million, or, for the preceding two years, having an average afterfederal-income-tax profit of less than $2 million. At least one job should be created or retained for each $15,000 of CCB money loaned. Cooperatives must be located in certain counties of North Carolina. Contact: CCB, 413 East Chapel Hill St., P.O. Box 3259, Durham, NC 27705, 919/683-3016.

The Institute for Corporate Studies Inc. is a nonprofit organization which conducts research, education, and consultation with business, labor, non-profit corporations, and the general public. The Institute's main themes are self-governance in the workplace, organizational self-study, participatory problem-solving, and social accountability. ICS applies expertise to the study and support of corporate innovation, employee stock option plans, workplace improvements, new modes of community development, and new approaches to job creation and job training. Contact them about conferences and workshops, a speaker's bureau, consultants and consulting teams, research activities, and publications. They can be reached at: 200 Boylston St. #333, Chestnut Hill, MA 02167, 617/738-0108; or: P.O. Box 1097, Brookline, MA 02146.

The E.F. Schumacher Society in the U.S. was founded in 1980 to forward and promote the work which Dr. Schumacher began and outined in his book, Small is Beautiful. Dr. Schumacher's life was largely identified with his articulation of the need for an appropriate technology of cooperation and living. The Society's traveling seminar, "Tools for Community Economic Self-Reliance," is given in numerous communities across the nation and world, and, in an intensive week, addresses three main issues: The need for appropriate, community-controlled institutions; the need for a mode of conducting worker-owned and workermanaged industries; and the need for small-scale, decentralized, financial institutions. Reports on the Society's projects are in the Society's newsletter sent to members. Contact: Susan Witt, Box 76, RD 3, Great Barrington, MA 01230, 413/528-1737.

□ ACADEMIC HOUSING, FRANKFURT: From Networker Margit Mayer (Metzstr. 6, 600 Frankfurt/m. 90, West Germany): I have a fully equipped academic household near the JWG-University of Frankfurt, which will be available for a year starting in July 1984, either for rent or as a swap with someone in the San Francisco Bay area. Please write, or call at 611/776308.

☐ MONTREAL REPORT: From PN Member Alexander Kowaluk (5431 Duquette Ave., Montreal, PQ H4A 1J7): Please be assured that we are very active, mainly through the Montreal Citizens Movement, having recently elected 15 opposition council members out of 57. We will try to supply a capsule of major accomplishments as soon as there is a let-up in the local municipal scene—probably this summer.

□ SELF-HELP DATABASE: CIVITEX (the Civic Information and Techniques Exchange) is a community-oriented database service operated by the Citizens Forum on Self-Government, 55 W. 44th St., New York, NY 10036. The database contains several thousand profiles of citizen-initiated, problem-solving efforts, and is designed to help community activists and others learn from various local experiences. Call

800/223-6004 to make a specific CIVITEX search requset, or to learn how to submit information about a project. While there is no charge for the service, users will be asked to make a small donation. (Callers from Alaska, Hawaii, or New York State call 212/730-7930.)

□ QUALITY-OF-L1FE BIBLIOGRAPHY: The Council of Planning Librarians (1313 E. 60th St., Merriam Center, Chicago, IL 60637, 312/947-2007) has published a 23-page bibliography on The Quality of Life and Environmental Constraints. References are annotated, and tend to show that a resource-compatible life style can also be rewarding and fulfilling. Copies are $7.

□ HOUSING SYNDICATION: The National Housing Law Project (1950 Addison St., Berkeley, CA 94704, 415/548-9400) has received a Ford Foundation loan to provide legal and technical assistance to low-income nonprofit housing groups interested in syndicating new or existing housing. Eligible groups will still have to meet some out-of-pocket expenses and certain other conditions. Contact the Housing Law Project either in Berkeley, or Washington, DC: Roisman, Reno & Cavanaugh, 509 C St. N.E., Wash. DC 20002, 202/543-4900.

Organizing for Social Responsibility

(This commentary was prepared by PN Member Frank P. Ehrenthal (2413 Southgate Square, Reston, VA 22091, 703/860-8262), former Chairman, Graduate Programs in Urban Design, and in Urban and Regional Planning, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.)

For some years, physicians have organized themselves nationwide in groups/chapters for social responsibility. Other professionals, educators, artists, and business executives, have done, or are doing, so with one or more issues on their agenda. Common to their agendas is the issue of the arms race, which they regard as a monstrous worldwide threat to survival.

In July 1959, a memorandum on Community Planning, Nuclear Warfare, and Civil Defense was initiated for submission to the Board of Governors of the American Institute of Planners by 13 members, including Lewis Mumford, Walter Thabit, and Henry Churchill, among others, urging consideration of a resolution and appropriate action at an upcoming national conference on the following technical judgments: 1) That Civil Defense and falloutshelter programs were incapable of protecting American cities and their citizens in a nuclear war; and 2) That the only way to protect U.S. cities against nuclear attack was through negotiations for the cessation of testing and use of nuclear weapons. The memorandum further suggested the appointment of "an official committee to report on further steps the profession should take to help insure that the destructive potential of nuclear explosives and radioactive pollution are never used against our communities."

Ten years later, the 1969 American Institute of Architects' national convention passed an anti-war resolution; and so did the 1972 meeting, publishing its resolution in major national newspapers in full-page ads, and calling on state councils and local chapters to publicize it within their areas.

More recently, the 1981 issue of The American Society of Landscape Architects' Land magazine carried Society President William A. Behnke's statement in support of the MX missile program. In response, Henry F. Arnold read a statement at a 25th anniversary panel of the Department of Landscape Architecture at the University of Pennsylvania on the "Future of the Profession." In it, Arnold said, "It is unnecessary to mention our shared higher ethical objections to this atrocious military scheme. On a purely technical level, it is a hare-brained scheme that will be obsolete before it is built, being supported by a greedy military-industrial complex against the advice of our best technical experts."

In January 1982, Robert E. Alexander called on the American Institute of Architects' Los Angeles chapter to take a position opposing, and refusing to cooperate with, a revival of the national civil defense program. Also that year, Rose Marie Rabin of the Southern California Institute of Architecture initiated Architects, Designers, Planners for Social Responsibility; and Sidney Gilbert founded New York's Architects for Social Responsibility.

In 1983, Klaus Muller founded a Boston-area Architects for Social Responsibility, Kathryn Kasch and Wayne Sherwood founded Boston's Planning for Peace; and I helped start Washington's Environmental Designers and Planners for Social Responsibility.

On April 29, 1982, and May 4, 1982, respectively, identical resolutions calling for the immediate cessation of the production and distribution of nuclear weapons, and for the alternative use of resources for constructive and peaceful purposes were adopted by the faculty of the Graduate School of Architecture and Planning of Columbia University and by the faculty and staff of the New Jersey School of Architecture in the N.J. Institute of Technology.

A month later, a group of planners, landscape architects,

☐ CORPORATE PHILANTHROPY: The Public Management Institute (358 Brannan St., San Francisco, CA 94107) has published a third edition of its corporate giving directory: Corporate 500: The Directory of Corporate Philanthropy. Entries include eligible activities, contact persons, and application procedures. Copies are $250. ☐ INVESTMENT SERVICE: Market Conscience (Box 81, Burlington, PA 18814, 717/265-4016) is an investment advisory service for socially responsible investors, which includes a handbook, a choice of publications, and a 24-hour advisory hotline. Prices vary depending on the services selected. ☐ TRAINING FOR ORGANIZERS: The National Training and Information Center (954 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, IL 60607, 312/243-3035) has prepared a series of week-long training sessions on the basic philosophy of organizing, from door knocking to developing coalitions. Remaining sessions are June 18-22 and October 1-5; tuition is $200. Limited scholarships are available.

☐ YOUTH EMPLOYMENT: Public/Private Ventures (399 Market St., Philadelphia, PA 19106, 215/592-9099) has prepared a publication, A Practitioner's Guide: Strategy Programs, and Resources for Youth Employability Development, for a wide audience of planners, program operators, educators, and counselors. The guide provides an operating checklist, case studies, a list of federal funding sources, and descriptions of helpful groups and publications. Copies are $10.

□ DEMOCRACY PROJECT: The Democracy Project (145 E. 49th St. #9D, New York, NY 10017) has a publications list, with a range of books and reports on economic and political democracy, health and safety regulation, and crime. Titles include Who Runs Congress?, There He Goes Again: Reagan's Reign of Terror, and Making Regulation Work.

□ WORLD HOUSING MODELS: PN Members John F.C. Turner and Bertha I.B. Turner of AHAS (Box 397, London E8 1BA) have been commissioned to carry out the first stage of a program for the United Nations International Year of Shelter for the Homeless 1987. From existing and acquired case materials on home and neighborhood improvement, where maximum use has been made of scarce and underused resources, a selection of 20-25 projects will be made for more and architects, among them Chester Hartman, Henry Arnold, Karl Linn, Kevin Lynch, Walter Thabit and Sam Hurst, organized and conducted a workshop, "How does the designed environment contribute to nuclear war and how can environmental designers work toward its prevention?" The workshop was at the June 1982 Conference on Social Scientists and Nuclear War, sponsored by the City University of New York and Rutgers University, and was held at the CUNY Graduate School and University Center.

Contemporaneously, the American Institute of Architects' 1982 national convention adopted a resolution calling for a total nuclear disarmament.

In September 1982, Sam Hurst of the University of Southern California's School of Architecture and Fine arts read a paper, "Nuclear War and the Liberating Environment," at an event sponsored by Architects, Designers, Planners for Social Responsibility at the Pacific Design Center. The paper was a passionate expression of ethical, professional, and programmatic concerns. Peter Marris of UCLA Planning prepared a statement for the group, concluding: "We believe that any responsible profession must be prepared to reach a collective understanding on issues that vitally affect its interests and its survival, and to contribute that understanding to society. Our professional journals and meetings should provide opportunities to develop that understanding through debate and discussion. To refuse that task, on the grounds that it would intrude political controversy and partisanship into the profession, denies the relevance of what we do to the crucial issues of our time, and would be professionally irresponsible." Tom Dinell, Head, University of Hawaii Department of Planning, wrote: "The most urgent planning question before us... is how to avoid a nuclear holocaust..... Perhaps this is the ultimate and universal planning task." ("Viewpoint," Planning magazine, September 1982.)

Our related professions bear joint, if not exclusive, responsibility for the planning and design, the implementation guidance, and protection of a livable environment for civilized living. We are faced with a compelling need to concentrate our attention on our social responsibility for protection.

It seems to me that the gathering, objective analysis, and distribution of basic information, the gathering and distribution of already developed data of professional expertise, and the organization of research—all relevant to protection—can now be done only by the voluntary and joint effort of our related professions. For effectiveness in terms of the quality, the validity, and the acceptance of our work in the wider community, "joint" should both be understood and be seen as "integrated."

Networkers interested, and not as yet participating, in this endeavor are urged to contact any of the following:

- Architects, Designers, Planners for Social Responsibility, 1700 Westwood Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90024, 213/829-3482.
- Architects for Social Responsibility, 225 Lafayette St., New York, NY 10012, 212/334-8104.
- Architects for Social Responsibility/Planning for Peace, Box 8655, Boston, MA 02114, 617/742-0820.
- Environmental Designers and Planners for Social Responsibility, Frank P. Ehrenthal, 2413 Southgate Square, Reston, Reston, VA 22091, 703/860-8262.

In a related development, at the American Planning Association May 5-9 national conference in Minneapolis, the group's Board of Directors is scheduled to consider a resolution endorsing a bilateral nuclear freeze.

detailed documentation. Shorter profiles will be prepared for a larger number of cases.

Anyone knowing of cases illustrating key issues which should be more widely known and could be fully documented—whether they illustrate what should or what should not be done, and not limited to very low income or emergency situations—is invited to submit them.

□ HEALTH POLITICS: The Journal of Health Politics, Policy and Law is interdisciplinary and authoritative, and provides coverage of countries around the world, in addition to Canada and the United States. It also includes book reviews, short notes, and a U.S. federal government report. Recent articles explored the survivability of public hospitals, better targeting of physicians to underserved areas, and public participation in health planning. Subscriptions are $16 for students, and $32 for individuals, payable to Duke University. Write: Journal of Health Politics, Policy, and Law, Box 3018, Duke University Medical Center, Durham, NC 27710.

□ PN MEMBER NEWS: From Jemadari Kamara (2284 Hardyke Ct., Ann Arbor, MI 48104) In addition to serving as Director of the African and Afro-American Studies Program (Univ. of Michigan-Flint) and as Co-Director of the Research Program on Industrial Policy at Ann Arbor, I am also interested in regional development problems (especially in Africa), plant closings in the United States, socially responsible investments, and industrial policy. I will be teaching courses, or be involved with community groups, dealing with these issues during the coming year.

□ URBAN REPORT: The National Urban Coalition (1120 G St. N.W. #900, Wash. DC 20005, 202/628-2981) has published a 163-page report, The Situation in Urban America: A 1983 Report on America's Cities, which summarizes the effect on cities of three years of Reaganomics. The picture is mixed. "The judgment seems to be that the strong and deserving have survived, and that the others probably would only be hurt by soft-headed and costly efforts to help," the report says. No price is listed.

☐ CANADIAN RESEARCH: The Center for Urban and Community Studies of the University of Toronto (455 Spadina Ave., Toronto, ONT M5S 2G8) has a new publications list of research papers and bibliographies. Topics include housing and single parents, shelter allowances, and social networks among Toronto ethnic groups.

□ PLAYGROUND DESIGN: The Chinese Playground: Community Participation in Design is a 28-page report by the Community Design Center of San Francisco (2101 Bryant St. 3rd Flr., San Francisco, CA 94110, 415/647-1366) of a major, community-based effort to redevelop and redesign the city's long-neglected Chinese Playground in Chinatown. The effort grew out of community reaction to a developer's plan to convert the playground to a nine-story parking garage with a rooftop play area. No price is listed.

□ NETWORKER UPDATE: From Bo Yerxa (Pocomoonshine Lake Land Co-op, S. Princeton, ME 04668, 207/427-3819): Following completion of my National Rural Fellowship, and receiving my MRP from UMass-Amherst, I have returned to my position as Planner for the Passamaquoddy Tribe at Indian Township. I am also teaching (environmental health and rural issues) at the School of Human Services, New Hampshire College, where I am working on a second Master's in their innovative Community Economic Development Program. I am also concerned with land reform, bioregionalism, and regenerative agriculture and forestry.

□ WOMEN'S ISSUES: A Women's Rights Agenda for the States is an anthology by 21 authors on background information and ideas that current political officeholders and candidates can use in building a sound platform on women's issues. Among the issues: economic policy, social justice, peace, and the environment. Copies are $8.95, prepaid, from: The Conference on Alternative State and Local Policies, 2000 Florida Ave. N.W., Wash. DC 20009, 202/387-6030.

□ PUBLIC HEALTH: The Journal of Public Health Policy is a quarterly publication on planning, organizing, and financing health care. It is relatively new, and is provocative and informative. Subscriptions are $35 from: Milton Terris M.D., 23 Pleasant Way, S. Burlington, VT 05401.

□ HUMAN SERVICES SOFTWARE: Computer Consulting and Programming Associates (7553 Canal Plaza, Portland, ME 04112, 207/774-8242) is compiling a directory of microcomputer software in human services, and is searching for reports of such software in actual use. The directory will include evaluations by users of off-the-shelf software, a vendors' list of suitable software, and hands-on reviews of packages with exceptional merit.

□ IN-FILL HOUSING: Residential Infill: Increasing the Opportunity for Affordable Housing is a 79-page report by the UC-Berkeley Community Design Center Studio. The study details the process of neighborhood infill analysis, the economic issues of infill housing, and some appropriate designs for affordable infill housing. Copies are $4 from: James E. Vann, UC Community Design Centers, Univ. of California Wurster #232, Berkeley, CA 94720.

□ SOCIAL ARCHITECTURE: The Scope of Social Architecture is a collection of reports on 26 projects from 12 countries that constitute an international debate on the goals, methods, and scope of social architecture. The 362-page, large-format book is edited by Networker C. Richard Hatch, and includes contributions from other Networkers as well. For copies: Van Nostrand Reinhold Co., 135 W. 50th St., New York, NY 10020. No price is listed.

□ WOMEN IN HOUSING: Minnesota Women in Housing is a group of some 200 feminist women involved in various housing-related fields: architecture, contracting, public and private nonprofit agency staff, academics, etc. The group's aim is to increase public awareness that housing is a women's issue, and to educate housing people on women's issues. The group plans presentations at the June 24-28 National Low-Income Housing Conference in Washington, D.C., and also at the June American Planning Association meeting in Minneapolis. Details: Mary Vogels Heffernan, Val Michelson & Associates, 1821 University Ave. #344N, St. Paul, MN 55104.

□ JOB PROMISES UNMASKED: Paychecks and Promises: The Impacts of Economic Development is a 32-minute investigative videotape by the North Carolina Occupational Safety and Health Project (Box 2514, Durham, NC 27705,

The Planners Network

The Planners Network is an association of professionals, activists, academics, and students involved in physical, social, economic, and environmental planning in urban and rural areas, who promote fundamental change in our political and economic system.

We believe that planning should be a tool for allocating resources and developing the environment to eliminate the great inequalities of wealth and power in our society, rather than to maintain and justify the status quo. We believe that planning should be used to assure adequate food, clothing, shelter, medical care, jobs, safe working conditions, and a healthful environment. We advocate public responsibility for meeting these needs, because the private market has proven incapable of doing so.

We oppose the economic structure of our society, which values profit and property rights over human rights and needs. This system perpetuates the inequalities of class, race, sex and age which distort human relationships and limit the potential for a decent quality of life. We advocate a shift in current national budgetary priorities to favor human services, social production and environmental protection over military and other nonproductive expenditures.

We seek to be an effective political and social force, working with other progressive organizations to inform public opinion and public policy and to provide assistance to those seeking to understand, control, and change the forces which affect their lives.

The Planners Network Newsletter is published six times a year as the principal means of communication among Network members. Annual financial contributions are voluntary, but we do need funds for operating expenses. The Steering Committee has recommended the following amounts as minimums for Network members: $10 for students and temporarily unemployed; graduated payments for the employed of $20 plus an additional $1 for each $1,000 earned above $10,000.

Members of the Steering Committee: Chester Hartman, DC, Chair; Emily Achtenberg, Boston; Eve Bach, Berkeley; Bob Beauregard, New Brunswick, NJ; Donna Dyer, Durham, NC; William Goldsmith, Ithaca; Charles Hoch, Chicago; Joochul Kim, Tempe; Judy Kossy, DC; Jacqueline Leavitt, NYC; Jackie Pope, NYC; Alan Rabinowitz, Seattle; Pat Wilson Salinas, Austin; Tony Schuman, NYC; Derek Shearer, Santa Monica; Andre Tremoulet, Roanoke.

☐ DEADLINE ALERT: The deadline for getting copy into the June Planners Network is going to be Monday, June 4. We always like to hear from as many Networkers as possible, and we especially like it when you type your notes and letters (because it speeds production, as it reduces chances of misreading what you write).

Copy Deadline PN #46: June 4, 1984.

☐ TALK UP PN: Please don't be shy about sharing news of the Planners Network with others. Let them know about us. Probably the best outreach we have is when you educate and recruit your friends, co-workers, acquaintances, and others. We have a good, one-page introductory sheet, "The Planners Network—What It Is," which we can send you in any quantity you wish. "What It Is" includes a statement of our principles, a brief organizational history, a list of Steering Committee members (who also double as regional contacts), and the method for calculating contributions. If you wish, you can also send us a list of prospective Networkers, and we will contact them for you.

☐ PERSONAL UPDATES: There are a number of short communications in this issue from Network members, letting us know about new jobs, projects, what's happening in their lives, etc. We encourage this. Sharing this kind of "where-I'mat" information helps create a sense of community, provide contacts, generate support, and generally act like the network we strive to be.

☐ ADDRESS CHANGES: Many Networkers seem to move around a lot. When you do, please let us have your old address and zip code as well as your new ones. Names (like luggage) sometimes are identical, and we want to be sure we change the right address card. Moreover, our cards are maintained in zip code order (because that's the way the Post Office wants the mail); so if we don't have your old zip code, we can't find your old card; and we wind up paying postage for phantom recipients. So please help out and send both old and new addresses.

☐ PROMOTE PN: Some of you, when writing articles of various types, include in your biosketch something like: "... is also a member of the Planners Network (1901 Que St. N.W., Wash. DC 20009), a national organization of progressive urban and rural planners." You'd be surprised how helpful that is in getting word around of our existence; we get lots of inquiries and membership requests as a result of such items. Try to include something like this wherever possible when you publish.
