PN NEWS

From the PN Steering Committee

The PN Steering Committee recently sent out a letter of protest to the Attorney of the German Federal Supreme Court for the abuse of academic freedom continuing to be committed in Germany against a number of individuals, including Dr. Andrej Holm and Dr. Matthias Bernt, for alleged membership in a criminal organization. Drs. Holm and Bernt are highly regarded academics in the fields of urban geography and planning, who have been conducting research on gentrification. Due the politically engaged nature of their research, they have been subject to ongoing observation and criminal procedures.

To view a copy of the letter that was sent out, please visit:

From the Conference Committee

Not to be outdone by our colleagues on the chapter and membership committee, the folks here in conference central would also love to hear from Pners who are interested in helping out on the conference committee. We are working to provide more institutional support to the local organizers of our conferences (including the initial YPN conference in NYC this April and PN2008 in Winnipeg), brainstorm new ideas for conferences, and help PN select sites for future events. We are also trying to jumpstart a program to encourage PN gatherings at other conferences where members might be found in significant numbers, including APA and ACSP.

Interested in helping out? Want to help host an informal get together at APA in Las Vegas? Email conferences@plannersnetwork.org for more info.

YOUNG PLANNERS NETWORK (YPN) NEWS

Young Planners Network (YPN) Update:

This month, YPN members have been working hard to plan their conference, PLANet Youth NYC 2008, from April 3 - 6. This conference should bring together many youth and adult planners dedicated to increasing youth participation in the planning process.

We encourage you to register for the conference before the March 17 early bird deadline! Please refer to our website: www.youngplannersnetwork.org to find out more about the conference schedule, and to download the registration form online.

If you would like to sponsor a Young Planner to attend the conference, please email Josh Lapidus at josh@youngplannersnetwork.org, or send a check to:

PN2008: PLANNING IN CHALLENGING CLIMATES

PN2008 will bring together an array of planning practitioners, community and economic development professionals, organizers, policy analysts, designers, students and faculty. They will discuss strategies addressing social and environmental justice in challenging climates - including social, political and economic climates.

Topics of interest to the conference include, but are not limited to: models for community economic development • inner city community development • art and the city • planning and aboriginal communities • neighborhood revitalization • downtown redevelopment • housing and homelessness • promoting active transportation • urban ecology • green buildings and sustainable communities • social impacts of sprawl • heritage planning • progressive planning and the media • age-friendly communities.

A range of session types is encouraged, from conventional panels to participatory workshops and “how-to” sessions. Please send proposals for individual contributions or full sessions to PN2008Sessions@pnmb.org . The deadline for proposals is April 30, 2008. Space is limited. Please include the proposed session content, format and a list of potential speakers, panelists or participants. Additional conference information, including preliminary schedule, accommodations and mobile workshops, is available at www.pnmb.org . The web site will be updated regularly as the conference program develops.

"Segregation: The Rising Costs for America," (2008) is a new book edited by James H. Carr and Nandinee K. Kutty is published by Routledge, www.routledge.com. PB: ISBN 978-0-415-96533-0.

The book documents how discriminatory practices in the housing markets through most of the past century, and that continue today, have produced extreme levels of residential segregation that result in significant disparities in access to good jobs, quality education, homeownership attainment and asset accumulation between minority and non-minority households.

The book also demonstrates how problems facing minority communities are increasingly important to the nation's long-term economic vitality and global competitiveness as a whole. Solutions to the challenges facing the nation in creating a more equitable society are not beyond our ability to design or implement, and it is in the interest of all Americans to support programs aimed at creating a more just society.

The book is uniquely valuable to students in the social sciences and public policy, as well as to policy makers, city planners, real estate agents, mortgage lenders, and other housing practitioners.

FELLOWSHIPS

2008 Rose Fellowship Opportunities

Applications are now available for four new Rose Fellowship opportunities in diverse communities. Applications are available at <http://rosefellowship.org/> for the following positions:

- Community Housing Partnership, San Francisco, CA - San Francisco attracts tourists, innovators and industry leaders from around the world. At the same time, more than 7,000 San Franciscans have no place to call home. But for many of these vulnerable people, the situation is changing. Community Housing Partnership (CHP) successfully provides housing for people who have been homeless, as well as support services, training and employment opportunities that help people become involved in their communities and secure in their homes.

- Gulf Coast Community Design Studio, East Biloxi, MS - Hurricane Katrina may have washed away homes across Mississippi's coast, but it could not wash away hope. Since that devastating storm in 2005, the Gulf Coast Community Design Studio (GC CDS) has partnered with the East Biloxi community to plan, design, and build or rehabilitate more than 80 homes for low-income households. Now GCCDS is expanding its service area to all three coastal counties, multiplying its community partners and growing in scale to encompass much larger projects.
- Project for Pride in Living, Minneapolis, MN - Must affordability mean less than quality design or barebones systems and maintenance? Project for Pride in Living (PPL) in Minneapolis answers this question with a resounding, No. For 25 years, PPL has focused on providing the City's most in need with affordable, dignified, attractive housing that is well-maintained and well-managed. But five new projects will aim even higher, adopting Green design standards and a commitment to providing top-notch, consistently handsome buildings.
- Southwest Minnesota Housing Partnership, Slayton, MN - Every community has its unique needs. Urban, suburban, rural; new or established; mixed use, multi-generational, immigrant, and on and on the Southwest Minnesota Housing Partnership (SWMHP) embraces them all. A regional community development corporation with national standing, the SWMHP has a long list of projects in the planning, pre-development and conceptual stages. The rural Minnesota Fellow will also work in partnership with the Greater Minnesota Housing Fund (GMHF) on two Research & Development projects including testing the cost impacts of the installation of basic green product integration within in single-family home construction and providing data to revise the current Building Better Neighborhood manual.

Applications are due on April 15, 2008. For more information, contact Katie Swenson at kswenson@enterprisecommunity.org.
